Good morning Brad,

ivray 01.

Currently, the proclamation is not available on the City's website, as it is dated for May 18, 2019. However, Bev just received a call from Deborah Blackstone on your team asking why this is not posted since the Globe and Mail is asking (they saw the proclamation posted here: <https://twitter.com/TamilGuardian/status/1125860138089189376>). We are in the process of posting the proclamation on our page.

Hi all,

I wanted to flag the below request for a proclamation.

This May 18 will be the 10th annual Tamil memorial day. Previously I believe the Mayor has proclaimed it—
Don, can you confirm?

MP Gary reached out to me yesterday and requested if the Mayor could pass a motion in Council on it.

Please advise how to respond.

Good morning Brad,

The Mayor's Office then decided to draft a proclamation on their own, marking "Tamil Genocide Remembrance Day", and sent it to Client Services for printing and framing. Upon seeing the change in the name and the nature of proclamation, our team raised concerns with the Mayor's Press Secretary, explaining the advice we had received from GAC (who ultimately is the authority when it comes to the country's stance on foreign affairs), and the possible implications of using the legal term of 'genocide'. We were informed that the decision to produce this proclamation was political. We strongly recommended they use the neutral language we initially provided.

Please let me know if you have any questions or wish to discuss.

Thank you,

Nancy
